Going Forward

The Athenaeum living wall

We want to take our living wall to the next stage, commissioning specialist ecological surveys to better understand and strengthen its biodiversity value. Alongside this, we are exploring opportunities to bring the concept indoors, mimicking natural environments by using elements of the external vertical garden in the guest spaces to enhance wellbeing and overall experience, integrating nature more intentionally into the hotel.

Reducing food waste through Winnow partnership

We are partnering with Winnow to strengthen our approach to food waste reduction across the hotels. Using Winnow's intelligent technology, we will be able to gain detailed insights into where food waste occurs across the operations and, more importantly, why so that our chefs can make informed improvements to their operations, ensuring greater efficiency and reducing environmental impact.

Strengthening local food supply

A truly unique project is underway to bring produce directly from our own farms in England to the hotel kitchens. We aim to increase traceability, reduce supply chain complexity, and celebrate the quality of our home grown produce, following the seasons through our menus. Rooted in a long tradition of land stewardship, our farms are managed holistically, with the habitats, wildlife and distinctive characters of the estate prioritised and preserved to support biodiversity recovery and long-term resilience.

"Across our three hotels, ESG is embedded in how we operate every day, demonstrated by the strong accreditations each hotel has earned over the last few years. From reducing energy consumption, to strengthening community partnerships and having in place a strategy for continual improvement, our focus is to strengthen resilience in the face of climate change while enhancing the guest experience and delivering excellence."
